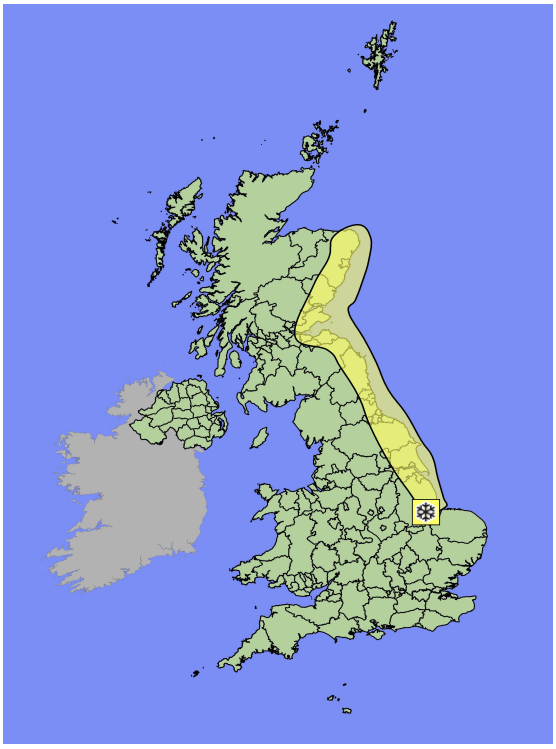
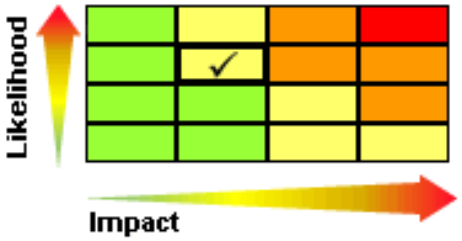
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Easterly winds are expected to bring cold air across the North Sea from Scandinavia this weekend. This will lead to an increasing risk of snow showers feeding onto eastern counties of England and Scotland, even at relatively low levels.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Snow

Valid from 18:00 on Sat, 12th Jan 2013 until 12:00 on Sun, 13th Jan 2013

Turning colder this weekend with snow showers likely to affect eastern coastal counties. Amounts of snow are uncertain and are likely to be highly variable with some places seeing very little. However, 5-10 cm could accumulate locally, particularly over hills, with icy surfaces an additional hazard.

The public should be aware of the potential for localised disruption to travel.
